hold the heated water before it is distributed to campus buildings. Growth of the campus has necessitated the structure.

cond of Two Tanks . . .

Gallons Added To Heating Capacity

second 14,000 gallon capacity union drum weighing 56,000 lbs. was hoisted into place with the new addition of the BYU central heating plant.

TOGETHER these tanks would provide enough water for the average person who drinks a pint and a half of water a day to store four years' worth of water.

The existing heating plant is 60 x 30 feet and has three stories tall, some of the rapid expansion of campus and especially the new addition of the Richards E. Building an expansion to the site was deemed necessary.

HE Geometric made of bright age steel girders and concrete under construction south of Wilkinson Center by the Talbot Construction Company is the new addition.

When completed it will add a 40 x 100 foot addition to house a 100-million lion BTU (British Thermal Unit) per hour high temperature generator. There will also be room for an additional boiler of the same capacity when it is needed in the future in addition to the two expansion.

THE DRUM will be used to compensate for the expansion of the 200 thousand gallons of water used in the heating system as it is heated to temperatures in excess of 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

The job of lifting the tank was left to the N. P. Mettome Company's crane service. The crane was required to lift the huge tank 57 feet above the ground level and then put it in place beside the other tank within the structure.

ALSO INSTALLED high in the steel and concrete superstructure earlier this month was a silo to feed the more than 20 tons of coal used per day to heat the campus during the winter to the boilers.

During operation the "cushion" tanks will reach temperatures near 400 degrees Fahrenheit within the tanks but due to about three inches of insulation material employees will be able to come in contact with the outside of the tank.

WHEN COMPLETED the heating plant will supply near 180 BTU's per hour or in layman's terms the entire plant will produce enough power to generate 15,000 kilowatts per hour of electricity.

At the present time the BYU campus only uses 7,500 kilowatts per hour of electricity to provide lighting for BYU. In other terminology the heat produced will be enough to heat 2,500 homes with an average floor space of 1,000 square feet.

Graduate Play Opens Season

ryouts for the first graduate production of the season as "Managers" will be held today and Wednesday according to Anna Moore, play director and dance student in Theatre Arts. HE PLAY, by Tennessee Williams, is a recollection of the past Tom Wingfield as he calls up memories of his unhappy home and of his pathetic, but beloved, and of the delayed, but always expected something that they lived for.

ailed by critics as one of Williams best plays, the play will be mounted in the Reader's Theatre as, the end of October, slated to Moore.

RYOUT TIMES for Tues. will be 4 to 5 p.m. in B-201 and Wed. 5 to 6 and 7 through 9:30 p.m. in the Experimental Theatre in the wing of the second floor in the Fine Arts Center.

to previous acting experience is essential, said Miss Moore, and she is invited to the tryouts. Moore may be contacted for the information at 373-1959.

Stomps Matinee Dances To Be Cut, But Not Killed

Stamping has not been banned but rock and roll bands (or electrically amplified music) are in question," according to Craig Collette, Social Vice President.

HE WENT on to say that he felt President Wilkinson is not concerned so much with types of dances; however, he is worried about certain bands producing music which encourage sensual gestures.

These gestures were described in some detail by the President during his address to the student body last Thursday.

AS OF THIS moment, the Social Activity Board has cancelled mat dances for the year—with the exception of certain afternoon dances which may be held monthly, pending the decision of Ken Driggs, Activity Chairman of the Social Office.

There will be a further meeting of the Social Council this Thursday in which the fate of stamp bands will be determined.

IF THIS question is decided in the affirmative the next step will be to determine what action will be imposed on the bands so they will conform with Brigham Young University dance standards.

Bob Christiansen Bares ASBVU Plans In 'State' Address

by Mike Hogue
Night Editor

Student Body President Bob Christiansen addressed the ASBVU Assembly about the "state of affairs" on campus Monday evening. Christiansen began with "look to the future, but remain here and now." Student Government has taken time to grow and experiment, now let us take the programs we have and let them work.

TWO POINTS brought up by President Ernest L. Wilkinson welcomed address were presented by Christiansen. "What was done about the riot last spring?" said Christiansen. It is now being discussed, we must take action on these activities when they occur, not when they are reminded to us by the Administration. There is no specific policy set down by the Administration concerning dance standards on BYU campus. This remains to be done by the Assembly, he added.

Commenting on the budget, Christiansen said he felt good about the Assembly taking over the distribution of the student funds. A good committee is needed. One which will spend time, get a true and fair representation of what is needed by the different offices. But added, this budget must also be one that is expanding with the University.

THE ASSEMBLY passed unanimously the budget for 1965-66 which will now be given to the Administration for their approval. "We in the past, have gained nothing by going to the Student Body Presidents Convention," said Christiansen. If nothing is accomplished this year at the convention, he proposed that we withdraw and find something which will enable us to give our ideas and bring back to this campus organized committees.

A RECENTLY organized committee for athletic betterment was mentioned under Christiansen. To facilitate the smoother operation of student seating. This committee will also work on seating for basketball.

Another major concern of the Student Body President is that the students know what is going on in student government. To help in this, Christiansen suggested that all Freshman and Sophomores be given an opportunity to learn about Student Government and responsibilities.

CLOSING REMARKS, by Christiansen, left the Assembly with two thoughts. First, he was concerned about the number of books that were not available in the Book Store. As an example, he could not get five of his books for classes. Second, that we look at our accomplishments in the Assembly, with the attitude that they will help the students who come after us, even a decade from now.

Dean Sets Action Code

Grounds for dismissal at BYU are still under executive consideration following President Wilkinson's forum speech last Thursday outlining stricter conduct standards for the school.

AS FAR AS dismissal procedures are concerned for students involved in any "campus disturbances" as described in President Wilkinson's talk, Dean of Students J. Elliot Cameron said his office's actions would be pretty much the same as in the past.

"We will consider every case on its individual merits as we have in the past," he emphasized. "But because all students have been warned about these standards of conduct, they will be dealt with more severely for any violations."

DEAN CAMERON stated that any students apprehended at the scene of disturbances would be automatically dismissed from school. He added that they would still have the right to appeal the dismissal and undergo an investigation.

Elder Petersen To Talk Tues.

Elder Mark E. Petersen, member of the Council of Twelve of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and also recent president of the West European Mission, will speak at the devotional assembly Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

Elder Petersen, who has been a member of the Quorum of the Twelve since 1944, has served for the past three years as head of the Church's missions in the West European area where there has been much growth and a huge building program.

He is a noted speaker and writer and a widely traveled business executive. He was a newspaper man for many years and was editor and general manager of the Desert News.

He is now president of the Desert News Publishing Company and chairman of its board of directors.

His wife, Emma Marr Petersen, is also a noted writer in the Church, having published many books especially for young people.

In the church Elder Petersen has served as a member of the Desert Sunday School Union General Board, on a Salt Lake City stake high council, in a stake presidency, and on the board of directors of the Genealogical Society.

Parents Converge At Conference Time

The Associated Men and Women Students will sponsor the first annual Parent's Day Friday from 8 to 8:30 p.m. on the BYU campus.

ACCORDING to Jan Snyder, chairman, the purpose of the event is to present the state of BYU to parents who will be visiting in the area during General Conference.

The "Day" will be kicked off at 7 p.m. with a tour of the seventh floor of the Wilkinson Center and parents will have an opportunity to see the BYU campus and surrounding territory from the observation deck.

AT 8:30 P.M. the international Folk Dancers will present a special program in the west patio of the Wilkinson Center.

Refreshments will be served in that area following the performance with a tour of the Wilkinson Center. The first special parents occasion will wind up with folk singing groups performing in the main lounge of the Wilkinson Center at 9:30 a.m.

CHAIRMAN SNYDER said that the committee hopes to attract a large number of the parents of BYU students who will be up in Salt Lake City for General Conference by widely publicizing the event both among the BYU students and the parents.

Is The Assembly Working?

Monday evening marked tangible evidence of work being done by the ASBYU Assembly.

The studentbody budget, providing monies for student events, activities, and services was approved by the Assembly. Since each student has nine dollars taken from his tuition to go into the student budget it would seem that students should know what it does with their money.

For this reason the Daily Universe is publishing the budget breakdown showing the distribution of money by the Vice President of Finance and approved by the Assembly.

The budget must now be approved by the administration.

Certainly more responsibility is felt by those who drew up the budget upon realizing that their work must be approved by a representative group of students and seen by the whole studentbody. Two changes were made in the budget by the Assembly. We hope the Assembly's approval was not a "rubber stamp" job.

Executive Council ...

Social Activity Board To Give Dance Policy

by Darryl Harris
ASBYU Press Secretary

A recommendation affecting dance policy at BYU is expected from the Social Activity Board by the end of the week.

THE BOARD will make the recommendation to the executive council which will in turn review and discuss the proposal.

ASBYU President Bob Christensen, chief member of the council, said he hopes the recommendation "will justifiably represent the feelings of both the students and church policy," and one that "will control dances rather than ban them." He made the statement following Monday's Executive council meeting.

AUTHORITY of the Social Activity Board was discussed by the council. Craig Collette, Social Vice President, asked for approval to provide the board with final authority when making policy recommendations.

Executive assistant David Es pointed out, however, that BYU constitution states final responsibility for any decision affecting the student body lies with the executive council.

Always A Few

Dear Editor,

There are always a few dissenters—a few who make jokes and snicker—a few who reject all forms of authoritative counsel from our leaders. Such was the case after President Wilkinson's welcome speech last Thursday.

BYU is a great university—and one of the main reasons it is great, is because it is unique. I, for one, always want to see it remain this way. I do not want to see it degenerate into just "another ordinary school" to satisfy the whims of a selfish few.

The minority groups will always be present here. The undercurrent stream of students who care less about the spirit and reputation of the "Y"—who enjoy their freedom to reject the hour code—who get so much satisfaction from pulling others down to their level of thinking—they will always be around.

MAY I always be the courage to speak up against these selfish, the honor code rejectors; and the degenerate minorities at this university.

Gary L. Blackburn

BYU Production Line

Dear Editor,

We all recognize President Wilkinson's responsibility to keep the University running smoothly; but must this entail forcing all students through a common mold, turning BYU into a production line for happy, well-dressed, narrow-minded young citizens?

MUST WE smother the spirit of adventure, challenge and nonconformity which mark the great men of art, politics, philosophy, and religion? And in the name of respectability?

It is possible for a man to grow a beard without going on a drunk every week and conspiring to overthrow the government.

It is possible for a girl to wear a skirt that doesn't cover her knees without stirring up the slightest provocation or shogling her cosmetics.

When a student enrolls in this institution he pledges to live in accordance with the high moral standards of the Church and the school has every right to demand such a pledge. But does it have the right to demand we surrender our identities?

Pamela Lyall

Spared Decision

Dear Editor:

I was gratified to see the dispatch with which the declarations of the policy of the Brigham Young University, made public just last Thursday, were put into effect, in that the stamp bands scheduled for the Friday and Saturday night dances were cancelled.

It certainly spared the students the painful decision as to just which dances currently constitute "improper dancing practices." It should also conclusively demonstrate the superiority of the authoritarian over the democratic form of government.

I SAY THAT I am grateful, because it is quite certain that university students are incapable of making valid aesthetic, intellectual, or moral judgments. Witness last year's Free Speech Movement at the Univ. of Calif. (See the excellent analysis in the current issue of Forbes.) The F. S. M.'s contention that the adult society, as represented by the administration has sufficiently demonstrated incapability of making such judgments must be dismissed as sophomoric and specious.)

But the statement that an authoritarian government's decline commences when it finds it necessary to implement its decrees by force, and the fact that the F. S. M. seems to have successfully estranged both the student body and the faculty from the administration give pause to thought.

THE NECESSITY of enforcement indicates alienation of the governed. I am troubled by the apparent student apathy and attitude of ridicule, and that the administration appears in the posture of arbitrary dogmatism. I fear that instead of the student body being inspired to higher aesthetic standards; it might be alienated from these very standards; it might no longer seek the stimulating confrontation of opposing ideas; but will continue its convictions in silence, its practices in private.

I am sure, however, that our administration, with the editorial backing of the Daily Universe, will be able to successfully deal with these dangers and to continually increase the quality of our pre-digested, spoon-fed education. May none of us be found guilty of being "beats, beatsniks, surfers, or go-goers."

Sincerely,
David Bailey

Vice President of Academics To Boost Tutoring Service

"We are presently in the process of putting BYU's tutoring program into an operation that will improve the quality and quantity," according to Lynn Southam, vice president of academics.

THE PHYSICAL administration of the tutoring service will be conducted by the Department of Continuing Education housed in the Harold R. Clark Building.

Under the direction of the department of Continuing Education, tutors who have been approved by their department chairman and the chairman of the Academic Standards Department will sign a contract to tutor for the University. Tutors will receive pay for their services through this department.

THE STUDENTS will be billed by the University for services received. With the adoption of a new program, tutors will receive a higher pay rate than they in the past. Prices will range from $2.00 an hour to $2.50, paid to faculty members who left open.

Students desiring tutoring asked to go to Room 224 or Harold Clark Building and discuss their problem with a tutor.

"WITH THE implementation of such a program," Southam stressed, "we expect to serve those who need remedial aid and those wishing to enter their background in areas such as foreign languages and many subjects."

Telephone Co. Booms at BYU

Mountain States Telephone Company has been doing "land office" business in Provo this week as it does every fall.

TELEPHONE COMPANY officials report that the volume of their business goes up 30 to 40 percent in one week at the beginning of each BYU school year.

Using employees borrowed from telephone exchanges as far away as Ogden, the local office has processed orders for more than 3500 new customers since September 7, according to Jack Dalton, Provo district manager.

OF THE TOTAL of 35 installation workers, 25 are not ordinarily assigned to the Provo area.

A temporary "branch office" was set up in the lobby of the Ernest L. Wilkinson Center for eight days to handle requests for telephone service.

THE VOLUME of calls requiring operator attention goes up sharply between freshman orientation and the date of delivery of the telephone directory in November, according to Garth Boyce district traffic manager.

Calls asking for information go up from 7500 per day to 11,150 per day, and direct long distance calls go up from 5000 to 14,000 per day during the peak period, he concluded.

First BYU College Dean Dies In New York City

Dr. Jay B. Nash, first dean of the BYU College of Physical Education, died recently in New York City. BYU officials were notified Friday by his wife. He was 70 years old.

BURIAL WAS IN Lynn, Mass., near the home of a son.

At the time of his death, he was executive secretary of the New York Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

DR. NASH came from New York University in 1954 to organize the first College of Recreation, Physical and Health Education, and Athletics at BYU. Before that time, the area was a department, with Dr. D. H. Jart as chairman.

Dr. Nash left BYU in 1956 when he was replaced by Dr. Milton F. Hartvigsen, the current dean of the college, renamed College of Physical Education.

Born in Ohio, Dr. Nash was graduated from Oberlin College. He received the doctor of philosophy degree from New York University, and in 1933, Springfield College conferred upon him the honorary degree of master of science.

HE SERVED as director of physical education for the state of California for two years before returning to New York University where he became chairman of the physical education department.

He served as president of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, the American Academy of Physical Education, the physical education section of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, health committee of American Education Association.

ASBYU Records Best Participation

More than 6,000 BYU students have turned in applications indicating willingness to participate in student government according to Merrill H. Scott, Participation Committee chairman.

"Most of the students are freshmen who responded to 'Y Leader' questionnaires at registration," said Scott. "Interest in student government has probably never been so high."

ASBYU President Bob Christiansen said he is impressed with the student interest and has encouraged all ASBYU committees and leaders to take advantage of the situation by involving these students in their activities.

The Participation Committee was organized last year to interest BYU students in taking an active part in clubs, special interest groups and student government," explained Scott.

"We take student applications and then follow up to see that as many are placed as possible. We publish a list of current campus organizations and help them by providing members and students who desire to render service in some way." The committee also publishes the "BY and You" booklet.

Scott is a youth leadership major from Salt Lake City in his junior year. Co-chairmen are Mike Wasley, Danny Wheeler and Richard Beard. Business manager is Kris Baumberger, and Laura Lee Fullmer, a transfer student from Diable Valley Junior College, is secretary.

Other interested students wishing to participate in student government may fill out an application with Scott in the ASBYU offices.

'River Kwai' Featured Movie

Showing at the Varsity Theater this week is the highly praised and controversial "Bridge on the River Kwai," a drama which has to its credit every major award in directing, acting and cinematography.

As the movie opens, a weary group of World War II prisoners of war are marching into a Japanese prison labor camp. When the camp commander, Colonel Saito (Sessue Hayakawa) orders all the men, including officers, to manual labor, he is opposed by Colonel Nicholson (Alec Guinness), a by-the-book British Commander.

His indignation places the lives of his men in jeopardy, and Saito chooses to humiliate and break Nicholson.

Meanwhile, owing to sabotage and Japanese inefficiency, construction on the bridge over the Kwai River begins to fall behind schedule. Nicholson agrees to oversee construction, unaware that he is openly aiding the enemy.

To British Intelligence the bridge becomes a major military objective. A demolition team is sent headed by an American escapee from the prison camp (William Holden), to destroy the bridge. The final scene is one of intense drama which effectively culminates the movie.

Showtimes are Tuesday-3 p.m.; Wednesday and Thursday-4:30 and 7:30 p.m.; Friday-3:50, 6:35 and 9 p.m.; and Saturday-2:30, 5:55 and 9 p.m.

AWS Seeks Avid Coeds

Plans are now being made for the annual Preference Ball, the first big event sponsored by the Associated Women Student's organization.

Officials announced Tuesday that sign-ups for those interested in working on the ball will be taken Friday and Monday at the AWS office 443 Wilkinson Center by Pat Mann, chairman.

Applications of freshman girls interested in working as members of the AWS council during the year are also being taken. This is only for girls who were unable to attend the meeting last Wednesday, officers stressed. Anyone interested may sign up for interviews in the AWS office. Interviewing will end Friday.

"Preliminary planning for Women's Week, one of the biggest events of the AWS calendar for the year, needs enthusiastic, responsive girls to handle committee work," Mary Jane Johnston, chairman explained. Girls interested are urged to contact her for more information at 374-5519.

The group also seeks girls interested in writing. They have opportunities for area representatives and reporters on the AWS off-campus newsletter.

No man is alone for long in Paris.

Not in a Paris Club Stripe belt, anyway. The colors catch the chicks' eyes. The masculine cowhide trim does the rest. They're bold belts—like the women who admire them. $3.50 takes one home. Send the belt tag with just $2 to Paris for a regulation-size (22" x 3 1/2" x 1 1/2") hard (ouch!) maple fraternity paddle with a leather thong. Beautifully grained and finished. Decorate it, hang it up or keep classmates in line with it! Shipped postpaid. Write: Paris Belts, P.O. Box 3836, Chicago, Illinois 60654. Please indicate your college or university.

Volcano Ravishes Philippines

MANILA, PHILIPPINES, (AP)—The Taal Volcano, which killed more than 1,000 people half a century ago, erupted early Tuesday with a giant roar and a towering thunderball of flame.

THE FLAMES shooting into the dark sky were visible in Manila 40 miles to the south.

The government hastily mustered relief and medical supplies. It was hoped victims would be few, as the volcano has been making ominous noises for some time and the residents were forewarned.

THE LAST eruption in 1911 caught the population relatively unaware and, according to local estimates, 1,335 people died, though the exact figure is unknown.

Since 1911 the volcano has remained dormant though there were again rumblings and signs of volcanic activity in 1949 and 1953.

THE PHILIPPINE constabulary said it has received no official reports of casualties thus far. Refugees were beginning to cluster in several towns near the volcanic site. The inland lake in which the volcano is situated is about 2,000 feet above sea level. Taal Volcano itself is a small peak inside this lake, known as Lake Taal and visited by thousands of tourists annually.

First reports said the eruption was showering ashes over a wide area of the southwest Luzon province of Batangas.

THE ERUPTION was reported by an airliner approaching Manila after a flight from Davao. The startled pilot sent the stewards back to wake up the passengers.

"The volcano was spouting flame and smoke at intervals of about two minutes," reported passenger Olly Abasco. "We watched it for about 10 minutes before we continued to Manila."

"THE EXPLOSIONS lit up the nearby countryside," he said. "The plane's passengers were exclaiming in wonder, oblivious to the terrible damage the eruption must be inflicting below."

Soviets To Revitalize Economy

MOSCOW, (AP)—Premier Alex. N. Kosygin outlined Monday his theme for invigorating the lethargic Soviet Economy at a closed meeting of the Soviet Communist Party's powerful Central Committee.

KOSYGIN was believed to have sought extending profit motive of other liberal economic concepts.

Communist Party Chief Leonid I. Brezhnev is to address the committee Wednesday and announce the vote for the 23rd congress of the Soviet Communist Party, expected March.

THE LISTING of Kosygin and Brezhnev as the main speakers appeared to substantiate reports from communist Party sources that there would be no major leadership changes at this meeting.

Former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was ousted at a similar Central Party meeting last October and his duties assigned to Kosygin and Brezhnev.

TASS, the official Soviet News agency, said Kosygin's speech was led "on improving the management of industry, perfecting planning and strengthening economic incentives of industrial production." It did not print any quotations from a premier's remarks. Kosygin, former chief of the Soviet textile industry, has been a leading figure in economic changes instituted since Khrushchev's downfall.

After Kosygin completed his speech, the issues he raised were debated by various party leaders, he said, but this usually means other speakers echo the words the main speaker.

THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE, the some 175 members, has met only once since removing Khrushchev and that meeting, in March, dealt with agricultural problems. Brezhnev had said in advance at this meeting would concentrate on industry, including the 50-20 economic plan for 1966-70.

THE PARTY newspaper Pravda outlined projects for the Central Committee in an editorial which did not, however, mention the meeting under way.

It listed the goals as improvement in industrial planning and management, enlarging the independence of industrial units, wider use of pay and fringe-benefit incentives for workers and managers, and improvements in the use of capital, the quality of production and the productivity of labor.

Say, BYU Oldtimers, Remember 10 Years Ago

What was Brigham Young University like ten years ago.

A check with the 1955-56 Universe revealed the following facts:

STUDENT enrollment reached a "record" 8,116.

The Universe featured Pogo as its daily cartoon.

Tuition and fees were raised $10 per quarter to a total of $210 per academic year.

BYU's DRUM MAJOR was Dick Ballou, who now heads the Cougar Marching Band.

The first state was organized on the BYU campus with 12 wards.

Universe editor was Steve Hale, who now writes the "Steve Hale's People" column for the Deseret News.

BYU received a $1.1 million grant from the Ford Foundation.

PRESIDENT WILKINSON announced the construction of a "student commons" building which would be completed by 1959.

Student wages on campus were 70 cents an hour.

Utah State beat BYU 47-21 in the 1955 Homecoming Game.

THE BYU student Legislative Council unanimously adopted a resolution which said:

"We, as a legislative body representing more than 8,000 students, make this resolution in the belief that we are reflecting the opinion of the majority of those students in that:

(1) A successful football team adds greatly to the stature of any university.

(2) Brigham Young University does not have a successful football team.

"THEREFORE, we encourage those who are in authority to take any action that may be deemed necessary to provide a football team which will reflect the stature of this great university."

It's taken a long time for that resolution to be filled, hasn't it?

The Communist force hit the outpost with mortars and automatic weapons.
